Lesson Plan for Civics Education: "Respect for People and for Rules"

Grade Level: 1st Year of Secondary School (Ages 11-12)

Subject: Civics Education (Taught in English)

Duration: 4 hours, divided into 4 sessions (1 hour each)

1. Learning Objectives

By the end of this series of lessons, students will be able to:

- Understand the concept of respect in various contexts (personal, social, legal).
- Recognize the importance of following rules for harmonious coexistence in society.
- Discuss examples of respectful behavior and violations of respect, both at school and in society.

- Apply these concepts to their daily lives, understanding how their actions affect others.
- Demonstrate knowledge of basic civic rules and their importance in ensuring the well-being of the community.

2. Key Content

The main topics covered in this lesson will include:

- Definition of Respect: What it means to respect people, rules, and the environment.
- Respect in Different Contexts: Respect for authority, peers, and personal space.
- The Importance of Rules: Why rules exist (at school, at home, in society), consequences of breaking them.
- Conflict Resolution and Respect: How to resolve conflicts respectfully, understanding others' points of view.
- Civic Responsibilities: How respect for laws and social norms contributes to a better community.

3. Teaching Methods

The lesson will be taught through a combination of the following methods:

- Interactive Discussions: Encourage student participation by asking questions, sharing opinions, and discussing real-life scenarios.
- Group Activities: Collaborative tasks where students can explore concepts of respect and rules in groups.
- Role-Playing: Simulating real-life situations where respect and rule-following are necessary.
- Case Studies and Examples: Use relevant examples from daily life, school rules, and laws to illustrate concepts.
- Multimedia: Videos or short clips depicting respectful and disrespectful behavior to stimulate discussion.

4. Activities for Students

Session 1: Introduction to Respect

- Icebreaker Activity: "What does respect mean to you?" — Students write down their personal understanding of respect.
- Group Discussion: Explore the meaning of respect in different contexts (family, friends, school, society).
- Class Activity: Create a "Respect Poster" that illustrates what respect looks like at school and in society (visual representation).

Session 2: Respect for People

- Group Work: Break students into small groups to discuss "What does respect for people mean?" Each group will create a list of respectful behaviors towards family, teachers, friends, and classmates.
- Case Study Discussion: Present students with different scenarios (e.g., bullying, disagreement, helping someone) and ask them how they would show respect in those situations.
- Class Role-Playing: In pairs, students act out scenarios where they need to show respect (e.g., disagreeing politely, helping a classmate).

Session 3: Respect for Rules

- Interactive Activity: Present a list of rules (school rules, rules at home, traffic laws) and discuss why rules exist. Why do we need them? What happens when we break them?
- Game: "Rule Breaker or Rule Follower?" — Students will be given various scenarios, and they have to decide if the behavior is respectful or disrespectful of the rules.
- Discussion: How do rules keep us safe and promote fairness in society?

Session 4: Verifying Knowledge and Understanding

- Review Game: A fun quiz or game that reviews key points about respect and rules (e.g., Kahoot, board game).
- Reflection Activity: Students individually write a short essay or answer questions reflecting on what they've learned about respect for people and rules.
- Verbal Quiz: Ask students questions to assess their understanding of the importance of respect and rules in society.

5. Materials Needed

- Whiteboard and markers
- Poster-making materials (paper, colored markers, stickers)
- Printed case studies or scenarios for group discussion
- Video clips showing respectful and disrespectful behavior (optional)
- Computers or tablets (if needed for multimedia activity)
- Quiz or game platform (e.g., Kahoot or Quizizz) for review and assessment
- Reflection worksheets for the final activity

6. Assessment Strategies

- Formative Assessment:
 - Observation during group discussions and role-playing activities.

- Informal questioning throughout the sessions to check understanding.
- Summative Assessment:
 - At the end of the unit (Session 4), students will complete a reflection activity (writing or verbal) on what they have learned about respect for people and rules.
 - A quiz or review game will help assess their retention of the key concepts.
 - Evaluate their participation in group activities, considering how well they contribute to discussions on respect and rule-following.

Session Breakdown

Session 1: Introduction to Respect (1 hour)

- Icebreaker: 10 minutes
- Group discussion: 20 minutes
- Poster-making activity: 20 minutes
- Recap and preview of next session: 10 minutes

Session 2: Respect for People (1 hour)

- Group work: 20 minutes
- Case study discussion: 20 minutes
- Role-playing: 15 minutes
- Wrap-up and preview of next session: 5 minutes

Session 3: Respect for Rules (1 hour)

- Interactive activity (Rules discussion): 15 minutes
- "Rule Breaker or Rule Follower?" game: 20 minutes
- Class discussion: 20 minutes
- Recap and preview of next session: 5 minutes

Session 4: Verification and Reflection (1 hour)

- Review game (Kahoot or similar): 20 minutes
- Reflection activity (essay or Q&A): 20 minutes
- Final verbal quiz: 15 minutes
- Conclusion: 5 minutes

This structured lesson plan aims to foster understanding and respect for both people and rules, helping students become responsible and respectful members of their community.

Per ogni metodo di insegnamento puoi fornirmi, in inglese, qualche suggerimento?

ChatGPT

Certainly! Here are some practical suggestions for each of the teaching methods outlined in the lesson plan:

1. Interactive Discussions

- Tip: Start with open-ended questions to encourage students to think critically and share their personal opinions. For example: “What does respect mean to you?” or “Can anyone think of a time when you saw someone being disrespected?”
- How to Implement: After posing the question, allow students time to think and share their ideas. Give everyone a chance to speak, and encourage students to listen to each other’s responses. Make sure to guide the conversation to keep it on topic and steer it toward key concepts, like the difference between respect and disrespect.
- Example Activity: Have students discuss in pairs first, then share their answers with the whole class. This gives quieter students a chance to organize their thoughts before speaking in front of the group.

2. Group Activities

- Tip: Make sure to assign roles within the group so every student can actively participate. For instance, one student can be the note-taker, another can present the group’s findings, and another can facilitate the discussion.
- How to Implement: Give clear instructions on the task and set time limits to ensure the group stays focused. You can rotate groups every session to give students the chance to work with different classmates and build communication skills.
- Example Activity: In the group activity on "What does respect for people mean?", give each group a scenario to analyze and come up with a list of behaviors that show respect (e.g., helping a friend, listening to a teacher, showing kindness to classmates).

3. Role-Playing

- Tip: Make the scenarios relatable to the students' lives. Use real situations they might encounter at school or in their neighborhood (e.g., resolving a conflict with a friend, helping someone who is being bullied).

- How to Implement: After explaining the concept, ask the students to act out the situations in pairs or small groups. Encourage them to express emotions and think critically about how to act respectfully in different contexts. If needed, provide them with specific dialogue to help them get started.
- Example Activity: Have students role-play situations such as “You see a classmate being excluded from a group activity. How do you show respect for them?” Allow them to reflect on their role-play afterward to discuss what went well and what could be improved.

4. Case Studies and Examples

- Tip: Choose case studies or examples that are age-appropriate and relevant to the students' everyday experiences. Make sure to discuss the outcomes of each case and how it relates to respecting people and rules.
- How to Implement: Present a scenario to the class (e.g., a story where a student breaks a school rule or disrespects another person) and ask the students to discuss what happened, why it happened, and what could have been done differently.
- Example Activity: Present a scenario where a student breaks a rule at school (e.g., cheating on a test). Ask students to identify the disrespectful behavior, discuss the consequences, and suggest respectful solutions.

5. Multimedia (Videos, Clips, etc.)

- Tip: Choose short, engaging clips (from movies, TV shows, or YouTube) that show examples of respectful and disrespectful behavior. This will visually engage the students and help them understand the concepts better.
- How to Implement: After showing the video, pause at key moments to discuss what the characters did and ask questions like, “What was the respectful action here?” or “What could the character have done differently to show respect?”
- Example Activity: Show a clip of a person helping a friend, and then a clip of someone ignoring or bullying another person. Ask students to compare and contrast the behaviors and discuss how respect (or lack of it) affects relationships.

6. Games (e.g., Kahoot, Quizizz, etc.)

- Tip: Use games as a fun way to reinforce the learning material. Make sure the game questions are relevant to the content discussed, such as scenarios involving respect and rules.

- How to Implement: You can use online platforms like Kahoot or Quizizz to create quizzes that test students on their understanding of respect and rules. Incorporate fun and competitive elements to motivate participation.
- Example Activity: In a quiz format, present questions about respectful behavior, such as “What is an example of respecting a school rule?” or “What should you do if you see someone being treated unfairly?” Award points for correct answers and encourage discussion after each question.

These suggestions aim to make each teaching method engaging and interactive, ensuring that the students actively participate and understand the concept of respect both in theory and practice.

Puoi fornirmi, in inglese, esempi di situazioni dove gli alunni devono mostrare rispetto?

ChatGPT

Certainly! Here are several examples of situations where students need to demonstrate respect:

1. Respecting Personal Space

- Scenario: You are in a crowded classroom, and your classmate is sitting next to you. They are busy working on their task, and you accidentally bump into them. How can you show respect for their personal space?
- Expected Behavior: Apologize for the accidental bump and make sure to maintain a comfortable distance from your classmate so they can focus on their work.

2. Respecting Others' Opinions

- Scenario: During a group discussion, one of your classmates shares an opinion that differs from yours. You disagree, but they express their point of view calmly.
- Expected Behavior: Listen attentively to their opinion without interrupting. When it's your turn, express your thoughts respectfully, acknowledging their viewpoint while sharing your own.

3. Respecting Teachers and Authority Figures

- Scenario: Your teacher asks the class to be quiet and pay attention during a lesson. Some students continue talking and distracting others.

- Expected Behavior: Stop talking immediately and focus on the teacher's instructions. Understand that the teacher is trying to help everyone learn, and their request deserves respect.

4. Respecting School Rules

- Scenario: You are in the school cafeteria, and there is a rule about cleaning up after yourself. A classmate leaves their trash on the table, ignoring the rule.
- Expected Behavior: Follow the school rules by cleaning up your own space and encouraging your classmate to do the same. Understand that rules exist to keep the school clean and safe for everyone.

5. Respecting Cultural Differences

- Scenario: You meet a new student who comes from a different country and has different cultural customs. During lunch, they may have a different way of eating or speaking.
- Expected Behavior: Show interest in their culture without making negative or judgmental comments. Ask respectful questions and be open to learning about their background.

6. Respecting When Someone Is Speaking

- Scenario: A classmate is giving a presentation, and some students are talking during their speech, causing distractions.
- Expected Behavior: Stay quiet and listen attentively while your classmate is speaking. Understand that giving someone your full attention when they are speaking shows respect for their effort and contribution.

7. Respecting the Environment

- Scenario: You are at a park with your classmates, and some students leave trash on the ground instead of using the waste bins.
- Expected Behavior: Show respect for the environment by picking up your trash and using the designated bins. Encourage your friends to do the same, ensuring that the area remains clean for everyone to enjoy.

8. Respecting Someone's Feelings

- Scenario: You notice a classmate is upset because they didn't do well on a test. They are sitting alone and seem to be crying.
- Expected Behavior: Approach them gently, ask if they need support, and listen without judgment. Offer encouragement and remind them that it's okay to make mistakes and try again.

9. Respecting Shared Spaces

- Scenario: You and your classmates share a classroom, and the space becomes messy after a group activity. Some students leave their materials on the desks.
- Expected Behavior: Help clean up the area, organize the materials, and encourage your classmates to do the same. Understand that respecting shared spaces means contributing to the upkeep of the classroom for everyone's benefit.

10. Respecting Others' Time

- Scenario: You are part of a group project, and one of your team members is always late to meetings and doesn't contribute to the work.
- Expected Behavior: Respect your teammate's time by being punctual and prepared for meetings. Address the issue politely by discussing how the group's success depends on everyone's contributions.

These scenarios are designed to encourage students to reflect on everyday situations where showing respect is key to creating a positive and harmonious environment, both in school and beyond.

Puoi fornirmi, in inglese, un elenco di situazioni per lo svolgimento del gioco "Rule Breaker or Rule Follower"?

ChatGPT

Certainly! Below is a list of situations for the game "Rule Breaker or Rule Follower?" where students can determine if the behavior shown is respectful and follows the rules, or if it breaks the rules. For each scenario, students will decide if the person is a "Rule Follower" or a "Rule Breaker."

1. Scenario: Talking During Class

- Situation: A student is talking to their friend while the teacher is explaining an important lesson.
 - Answer: Rule Breaker (Talking during class disrupts the lesson and shows a lack of respect for the teacher and classmates.)

2. Scenario: Cleaning Up After Lunch

- Situation: After finishing lunch, a student puts their trash in the recycling bin and wipes down their table.

- Answer: Rule Follower (Following the school rules about cleanliness and being considerate of others.)

3. Scenario: Ignoring a School Dress Code

- Situation: A student wears a T-shirt with offensive language written on it, which is against the school's dress code.
 - Answer: Rule Breaker (The student is not respecting the school's dress code or the importance of creating a respectful environment.)

4. Scenario: Helping a New Student

- Situation: A student notices a new classmate sitting alone at lunch and invites them to join their group.
 - Answer: Rule Follower (The student is showing respect and kindness, promoting inclusion.)

5. Scenario: Arriving Late to Class

- Situation: A student arrives five minutes late to class without a valid reason and doesn't apologize.
 - Answer: Rule Breaker (Arriving late without a valid excuse or apology disrespects the teacher and classmates.)

6. Scenario: Following Instructions During a Test

- Situation: A student sits quietly during a test, follows the teacher's instructions, and doesn't cheat.
 - Answer: Rule Follower (Respecting the rules of the test and acting honestly.)

7. Scenario: Shouting in the Hallway

- Situation: A student is shouting and running through the hallway, disturbing others.
 - Answer: Rule Breaker (This disrupts others and violates school rules about appropriate behavior in hallways.)

8. Scenario: Littering in the Playground

- Situation: A student throws a candy wrapper on the ground instead of using the trash can.
 - Answer: Rule Breaker (Littering shows a lack of respect for the environment and school rules.)

9. Scenario: Speaking Over the Teacher

- Situation: A student interrupts the teacher repeatedly while they are giving instructions.

- Answer: Rule Breaker (Interrupting the teacher is disrespectful and prevents others from listening and learning.)

10. Scenario: Supporting a Friend

- Situation: A student notices a classmate being bullied and stands up for them, telling the bullies to stop.
 - Answer: Rule Follower (Supporting and standing up for someone in need is a sign of respect and kindness.)

11. Scenario: Borrowing Without Asking

- Situation: A student takes a classmate's pencil without asking permission first.
 - Answer: Rule Breaker (Taking something without asking violates respect for others' property.)

12. Scenario: Returning a Lost Item

- Situation: A student finds a lost wallet in the hallway and takes it to the lost and found.
 - Answer: Rule Follower (Returning lost items shows honesty and respect for others' belongings.)

13. Scenario: Following School Safety Rules

- Situation: A student wears a helmet while riding a bike to school, as required by the school safety rules.
 - Answer: Rule Follower (Following safety rules is important to protect yourself and others.)

14. Scenario: Not Respecting Quiet Time

- Situation: A student continues talking and playing during a designated quiet time in class, when everyone is supposed to be working.
 - Answer: Rule Breaker (Disrupting quiet time violates the classroom rules and is disrespectful to others who are working.)

15. Scenario: Helping with Clean-Up

- Situation: At the end of the school day, a student helps the teacher tidy up the classroom without being asked.
 - Answer: Rule Follower (Taking initiative to keep the classroom clean shows responsibility and respect for others.)

These scenarios can be used in the game to have students discuss whether the actions are following the rules or breaking them. After each situation, encourage students to explain why they think the behavior is respectful or not, reinforcing the importance of rules in creating a safe and positive environment.

ChatGPT

Here are a few fun and interactive games designed to help students review and reinforce the key points about respect and rules:

1. Respect and Rules Bingo

Objective: To review key concepts of respect and rules through a fun, engaging game of Bingo.

Materials:

- Bingo cards with different scenarios related to respect and rules (e.g., "Helping a classmate," "Listening to the teacher," "Cleaning up your space," "Following the school dress code," "Standing up for someone," etc.).
- Markers or coins to cover the squares.
- A caller (teacher or a student) to read the scenarios aloud.

How to Play:

1. Give each student a Bingo card with different situations that involve respecting others or following rules. Ensure there are enough different scenarios so every card is unique.
2. The teacher calls out scenarios, and students mark them on their Bingo cards if they match.
3. The first student to complete a row (horizontally, vertically, or diagonally) calls out "Bingo!"
4. Ask the student to explain the situations they marked on their card to review why each scenario shows respect or follows rules.

Example Bingo Squares:

- Helping a friend pick up their books.
- Listening quietly when the teacher is speaking.

- Following the school rules during recess.
- Cleaning up your area after eating.
- Standing up for someone being bullied.

Variation: For extra engagement, have students come up with their own scenarios related to respect and rules that can be added to the Bingo cards.

2. Respect Role-Playing Relay

Objective: To practice demonstrating respectful behavior through role-playing.

Materials:

- Scenario cards with different situations related to respect and rules.
- A timer or stopwatch.
- A large space where students can act out scenarios.

How to Play:

1. Divide the class into small teams (4-5 students per team).
2. Each team will take turns sending one player to pick a scenario card from a stack. The player will then have 1 minute to act out the scenario.
3. Other students in the team must guess if the action shown is respectful and follows the rules, or if it is disrespectful and breaks the rules.
4. After each round, the teacher briefly discusses what was done correctly or incorrectly in terms of respecting others or following the rules.
5. Continue until all students have had a chance to act out a scenario.
6. Award points to teams for correctly identifying whether the scenario was "respectful" or "disrespectful."

Examples of Role-Playing Scenarios:

- A student notices a friend is sad and goes to talk to them. (Respectful)
- A student is talking loudly while the teacher is explaining something. (Disrespectful)
- A student helps another with their homework. (Respectful)
- A student ignores the rules during a group activity. (Disrespectful)

3. Respect and Rules Quiz Show

Objective: To test students' understanding of respect and rules in a fun, quiz-show format.

Materials:

- Prepared quiz questions about respect and rules.
- Whiteboard or smartboard to keep track of points.
- Buzzers or bells for each team to "buzz in" when they know the answer.

How to Play:

1. Divide the class into two or more teams.
2. The teacher asks a series of questions related to respect and rules. Teams take turns "buzzing in" to answer. If they answer correctly, they earn points. If they answer incorrectly, the other team has a chance to answer.
3. At the end of the game, the team with the most points wins.

Example Questions:

- Question: What should you do if you see someone being treated unfairly?
Answer: Stand up for them and report it to a teacher or a trusted adult.
- Question: Why is it important to follow the school dress code?
Answer: It helps create a respectful and safe environment for everyone.
- Question: What is a respectful way to disagree with someone?
Answer: Listen to their point of view and share your own respectfully without interrupting.

4. Respect and Rules Pictionary

Objective: To help students visually represent situations involving respect and rules while reviewing key concepts.

Materials:

- Whiteboard or large sheets of paper.
- Markers.
- A timer.

How to Play:

1. Divide the class into two teams.
2. One team member picks a scenario related to respect or rules and has to draw it on the board while the rest of the team guesses what it is.
3. The team has 1 minute to guess the drawing. If they guess it correctly, they get a point.
4. The next team then takes their turn.
5. Continue playing until each student has had a chance to draw at least once.
6. At the end of the game, the team with the most points wins.

Example Scenarios for Pictionary:

- Helping someone who has dropped their books.
- A student raising their hand to speak in class.
- A student picking up trash on the playground.
- A student following a teacher's instructions.

5. Respect and Rules Scavenger Hunt

Objective: To encourage students to identify and demonstrate respectful behaviors and rule-following in a variety of contexts.

Materials:

- A list of "clues" or "tasks" related to respect and rules (can be written or printed).
- A timer.
- Small rewards (optional).

How to Play:

1. Create a scavenger hunt list with different respectful behaviors or rules students need to "find" or demonstrate. The tasks could be performed either in the classroom or around the school.
2. Divide the class into small groups and give each group a list of tasks.
3. Set a timer for a certain amount of time (e.g., 20 minutes).
4. The groups must complete as many tasks as they can by demonstrating or identifying respectful actions or following rules.
5. After the scavenger hunt, discuss the tasks and how they reflect the importance of respect and rules.

Example Scavenger Hunt Tasks:

- Find someone who is helping clean up after lunch.
- Identify a rule in the school that helps keep students safe.
- Show respect by holding the door open for a classmate.
- Find a school rule that helps students focus during class.
- Find a student who is standing up for someone who is being treated unfairly.

These games are designed to be fun and engaging while reinforcing the key concepts of respect and rules. They allow students to actively participate and apply what they have learned in a variety of settings.

Puoi suggerirmi, in inglese, una serie di domande alle quali gli studenti dovranno rispondere per riflettendo su ciò che hanno imparato sul rispetto e sulle regole e sulla loro importanza nella società?

Certainly! Here's a series of thought-provoking questions that will help students reflect on what they've learned about respect, rules, and their importance in society. These questions encourage critical thinking and can serve as a group discussion, journal prompt, or written reflection.

1. What does "respect" mean to you?

- How would you define respect in your own words? Why is it important to show respect to others?

2. Can you think of a time when you were treated with respect?

- How did it make you feel? What was the impact on your relationship with that person?

3. Why do you think rules exist in school and society?

- What would happen if there were no rules? How would people behave differently?

4. How do you show respect for someone who has a different opinion than yours?

- Why is it important to respect people with different beliefs, cultures, or perspectives?

5. What are some examples of rules that help make school a safer and better place for everyone?

- How do these rules benefit you and your classmates?

6. When is it okay to break a rule?

- Can you think of an example where breaking a rule might be justified? Why or why not?

7. How does respecting other people make the world a better place?

- What do you think would change in your community or society if everyone showed more respect toward each other?

8. How do you feel when you see someone being disrespected or treated unfairly?

- What should you do in these situations? How can you show respect to others in those moments?

9. How can following rules in your daily life help you become a better person?

- How do rules help you develop important life skills, such as responsibility and self-control?

10. Why is it important to show respect for the environment and the world around you?

- How can small actions, like recycling or taking care of public spaces, demonstrate respect for nature?

11. How can you show respect for someone's time?

- What are some ways you can be respectful of other people's schedules and commitments?

12. Why is it important to teach younger students or your peers about respect and following rules?

- What can you do to be a role model for others?

13. What do you think are the consequences of not respecting others or breaking rules in society?

- How do these actions affect relationships, communities, and even entire societies?

14. How can we create a respectful classroom environment where everyone feels safe and valued?

- What are some specific actions students and teachers can take to promote respect in the classroom?

15. Do you think respect is always easy to show? Why or why not?

- Can you think of a challenging situation where it was difficult to show respect? How did you handle it?

16. How does following rules help maintain fairness in society?

- Can you think of an example where a rule helped make a situation fairer for everyone involved?

17. What is the role of respect in building trust between people?

- How can showing respect for someone help strengthen relationships and build trust over time?

18. How can you handle a situation where someone is not respecting the rules?

- What would be a respectful way to address the behavior without causing conflict?

19. How does respect for others and following rules relate to your own personal values?

- What are some of your core values, and how do they influence how you treat others?

20. In what ways can we show respect in our digital interactions, like on social media or in online discussions?

- Why is it important to apply respect to online communication, and how can we prevent online bullying or disrespect?

These questions not only help students reflect on respect and rules in their personal lives, but also allow them to think critically about the broader impact these values have in society. Encourage them to answer thoughtfully and share their opinions, fostering a deeper understanding of the importance of respect and the role it plays in maintaining a harmonious and fair community.

3. Game: Respect and Rules Charades

Objective: To help students practice recognizing and demonstrating respectful behaviors in a fun, active way.

Materials: None (but you may write down scenarios on cards for easier reference).

How to Play:

1. Divide the class into two teams.
2. Prepare a list of scenarios that involve respectful or disrespectful behavior (write them on cards or simply read them aloud). Some scenarios can involve following or breaking rules in different contexts (school, home, public places).

3. A student from the first team draws a scenario from the pile and acts it out without speaking. The other team members must guess whether the behavior is respectful (a "Rule Follower") or disrespectful (a "Rule Breaker").
4. If the team guesses correctly, they earn a point. If they don't, the other team has a chance to answer.
5. Switch teams after each round. The game continues until all the scenarios have been used.
6. The team with the most points at the end wins.

Examples of Scenarios (These should be acted out, not described directly):

- A student helps someone who is being bullied.
- A student refuses to listen to the teacher's instructions.
- A student throws trash on the ground instead of using the trash can.
- A student raises their hand to speak during class.

These activities allow for assessment and review in an interactive and fun way while reinforcing the key points related to respect and rules. Students can reflect on their behavior and understand how respect contributes to a positive and safe environment.

In questi ultimi tempi mi sono avvicinata all'IA scoprendo un mondo straordinariamente interessante. L'IA indubbiamente può essere un valido aiuto nel processo di insegnamento/apprendimento. Tuttavia dobbiamo prestare molta attenzione, è sempre importante verificare i dati forniti e, se necessario, correggerli.
